Spindola Diniz, The book of judges Preliminary Table of Contents.docx; Spindola Diniz, Chapter 1 Acts of providence 03 12 2022.docx; Pihlajamäki, Merging Comparative Law and Legal History - Towards an Integrated Discipline.pdf;

Dear all,

as indicated last week, next week we are having a guest, Ricardo Spindola Diniz from Brazil, based in Luxembourg/Osnabrück. He was a fellow participant in the Summer Academy of Max-Planck-Institute for Legal History and Legal Theory and I am glad to introduce him and his work.

Ricardo Spindola Diniz is a PhD candidate at the University of Luxembourg. The (preliminary) title of his thesis is: "The book of judges: reoccupation, religion, and constitutional adjudication at the origins of the US Supreme Court (1789-1935) and the German Federal Constitutional Court (1951-1969)".

For next week, the suggestion is to read the Introduction, Part 3 (pp. 20-38) and the concluding remarks (p. 47) of the draft attached. Attached you can also find a preliminary table of contents of the project as envisioned now.

Further, we would propose as a general reading: Heikki Pihlajamäki, Merging Comparative Law and Legal History: Towards an Integrated Discipline, American Journal of Comparative Law, Volume 66, Issue 4, December 2018, Pages 733–750 (also attached).

We believe that this piece speaks to a lot if not all projects in our round to certain degrees. But as the format was a little unclear as of now/if anyone else is presenting their work in the other half of the session, then obviously this piece would just be a recommendation to be discussed some other time.

...or over Glühwein after the session. Since we would also like to invite all of you to join us at 5pm on Gendarmenmarkt for a drink or two, with also the potential to look out for some place to have dinner after.

Looking forward to the session! Many thanks also on behalf of Ricardo Spindola Diniz.

Best regards,
Gwinyai Machona
